SALEM CHURCH 75 YEARS OLD; PLAN SERVICES

Christian Congregation
To Mark Event During
Week of March 14

FORMER PASTORS
ASKED TO ATTEND

Rev. P.H. Welshimer, Canton, Will Appear On Program

The Christian church will observe its 75th anniversary the week of March 14 and already plans are being shaped up for the celebration.

Rev. P. H. Welshimer, Canton, pastor of one of the largest Christian churches in the world, will appear on the program. He will be accompanied here by a group of singers.

Rev. Gaines M. Cook, Cleveland, state secretary for this denomination, will also have part on the anniversary program.

Opens With Supper

The celebration will begin with a Fellowship supper on Wednesday evening, March 14, and will continue until Sunday, March 18.

Rev. Welshimer will speak on Wednesday evening, while Rev. Cook will be at the Sunday services. Invitations are being sent to former ministers and those who have gone from this church into the ministry. They will be on the Thursday and Friday nights' programs. It is hoped to have responses from all persons living who have ever been members of the church, either by their presence during the celebration, or by greetings.

The pastor, Rev. C. F. Evans, has planned a Seven Weeks Recognition campaign, which will begin next Sunday and culminate with the special celebration. The pastor wants to enlist as many members as possible for regular attendance at church services during this period, as he hopes to make this period the best in the history of the church.

History of Church

A historical sketch taken from the church directory, published in July, 1915, during the pastorate of the late Rev. M. J. Grable, follows:

"In April, 1828, Walter Scott preached to crowded houses in the old Baptist church, on Depot at the present Christian church was organized March 15, 1829. During the intervening period of 31 years the church of Salem and vicinity were visited by many preachers of the Reformation. The names of some of these were: Joseph Gaston, William Smith, J. J. McFarlin, Ephraim Hubbard, Alexander Hall, John Henry, John Fick, T. J. Newcomb and George Fox.

"The ground now occupied by the Christian church building was formerly occupied by the building of the First Methodist church. The Methodist building was bought by the church in 1859. Prior to this time they worshipped in Liberty hall.

"The erection of the present building began in 1869. The basement was dedicated by William Bax, Jan. 1, 1871, and the auditorium on Sept. 17 of the same year by Isaac Errett, editor of the Christian Standard. The edifice cost $12,000.

"Congregation Grows

"In 1893 the building was improved and enlarged by the addition of a two story annex at a cost of $12,000.

Cuba Rejoices As New Era Of Peace, Prosperity Is Seen

Inside Story by Havana Business Man to Salem Firm
Reveals Horrors of Revolution

With Col. Carlos Mendieta installed as president and the Grau San Martin reign, short but explosive, terminated, the people of Cuba today are looking forward to a new era of prosperity and freedom.

Thus writes M. J. Mora-Ona, of the Mora-Ona company, S. A., importers, at Havana, to G. R. Deming of the Deming company here.

"The day Mr. Mendieta took office, were had the biggest celebration that I have ever seen in Havana," writes Mr. Mora-Ona, "as everybody felt happy, free, and Havana had its big day. Even the Armistice day celebration could not be compared with it. The Cuban people felt that it was the end of the reign of terror we have had and

ZERO WEATHER WHEAT HAZARD

Damaged Some, Observer
Announces

MILLPORT, Feb. 2.—Although wheat plants looked good all through January, according to L. H. Copeland, cooperative weather observer for this district, he holds that no doubt some damage was done to the plants at the close of the month on account of the zero temperature, with no snow on the ground to provide protection.

The month of January had a mean temperature of four degrees above normal, and rainfall was a mean temperature of four degrees below normal, although "nice" winter weather prevailed through all January up to Jan. 29. An anti-cyclonic storm came from the north the evening of January 28, and this caused a drop of 45 degrees. This drop came within 12 hours. The coldest day in January so far recorded Jan. 5, 1914, when 26 below was registered.

Normal temperature in this county during the last 41 years for the month of January was 25.6 and the normal rainfall for the same period was 2.75 inches.

Farmers are using more feed for cattle this winter than has been the usual custom for this season of the year.

Will Set Date For Farmers' Meetings

Officers of the Farmers' institute of Columbiana county will hold a meeting at 1:30 p. m. Thursday, Feb. 8, at the Farm Bureau office at Lisbon.

The purpose of the meeting is to select dates and speakers for next year's institute.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 2.—A quarantine on the civilian conservation corps camp at Bear Creek, 18 miles from here has been lifted with the checking of an epidemic of eye trouble.

Automobile Sales Show Big Increase

LISBON, Feb. 2.—Demand for new motor units in this county during January showed an approximate increase of 66 percent over the record of January, 1933.

It was disclosed today. A year ago 50 new pleasure and 10 truck units were sold in this county, while last month 84 pleasure and 37 new truck units were sold.

Distribution of pleasure units throughout the county last month shows the following sales: Ford, 16 new units; Plymouth, 13; Chevrolet, 10; Dodge, five; Nash, three; Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Continental, two units each; Studebaker, Hudson, Hupmobile, one unit each.

Sale of new trucks was: Chevrolet, 17; Ford, nine; Dodge, five; International, three; Studebaker, two; Diamond T, one.

OFFICER SLAIN, $140,000 STOLEN IN TWO HOLDUPS

Massachusetts Patrolman
Killed As Trust Com-

BANK MESSENGERS
GIVE UP $130,000

Money Intended for Factory Payrolls Taken
In New Jersey

(By Associated Press)

A policeman was slain and three other men were wounded in two eastern bank holdups in which bandits are reported to have escaped with a total of $140,000 today.

The slain policeman was shot in the stomach by bandits who shot their way to freedom after looting the Needham Trust company, Needham, Mass., of $10,000.

Two bank messengers of the Pennesgrove National bank, Pennesgrove, N. J., were held up by a band of bandits who stole money sacks estimated by officials to have contained $130,000.

Take Officials With Them

The four bandits entered the Needham bank, two of them armed with sub-machine guns, and after scooping up all available cash, forced John B. Riordan, teller, and Arnold McIntosh, treasurer, to climb on the running board of their touring car to protect them against possible pursuit.

Riordan jumped as the car sped through the Needham public square and escaped unharmed when the bandits fired at him. McIntosh was thrown out of the machine three miles farther on.

The patrolman, Forbes McLeod, was shot through the stomach as he raced to the bank in response to the sounding of a burglar alarm.

Others wounded are Frank Haddock, another policeman, Walter H. Bartholomew, 75, vault attendant, and Timothy Coughlin, a fireman.

Bartholomew was killed with a hand wound as the bandits entered the bank. Haddock tried to intercept the fleeing bandit car as it sped through Needham Heights and Coughlin, stationed at a nearby fire house, was cut down as he ran to Haddock's assistance.

Get Payroll Money

The New Jersey holdup occurred as the two bank messengers came within a few steps of the National bank building. The robbers stepped from an automobile, pointed guns at the messengers, quickly grabbed the money sacks and sped away.

The messengers, Harold Anderson, a teller, and W. H. Waddington, a runner, were on their way to the bank from the postoffice. The money was intended for payrolls for factory workers in the town.

Lisbon's Kiwanis Club 11 Years Old

LISBON, Feb. 2.—The local Kiwanis club observed its anniversary this week, the club having been organized in 1923 with Rev. P. W. Macaulay, now of the Niles Ave. Presbyterian church, Cleveland, as the first president.

At the anniversary meeting, five charter members were present, these being E. M. Cosser, Lodge Riddle, N. H. Ramsey, Ross W. Firestone and W. H. Hepburn.

Those serving as presidents succeeding Rev. Macaulay were: Lodge Riddle, W. H. Hepburn, W. H. Geiger, deceased; Homer L. Deemer, John F. Steel, Carl Turner, H. C. Leonard, R. W. Firestone, N. H. Ramsey, Rev. John P. Cameron, and W. J. Binsley, now serving.

The club was formed by the late Hal P. Denton, former newspaperman. First meetings were held in the Hostetter hotel, and later in the Hasbrouck hotel. More recently, however, weekly meetings have been held in the various churches.

Insane Convicts Flee Hospital; One Caught, 3 at Large

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 2.—Three of four insane convicts who escaped from the United States department of justice medical center here, were still at large today.

City homes and cabins and farm houses in this Ozark country were barred against possible entrance of the three.

George John Standish, one of the quartet which used a hacksaw blade and a volleyball net to gain freedom, was recaptured soon after last night's break.

Standish was serving 15 years for grand larceny from Washington, D. C., others who fled were:

Norvin Howard, 41, serving life term for murder, former "Red" war soldier, sentenced Dec. 2, 1918 by an army court martial.

Albert Devan, 34, serving two years for counterfeiting.

Joseph G. Watts, 25, serving 10 years for escape and robbery from Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

The four seized through bolts which held one side of the iron grill on a window and slid to the ground on the net.

Tickets On Sale For Play On Feb. 9

Tickets were placed on sale today for the comedy production "My Irish Cinderella," which will be given by Community Club players at the High school auditorium Friday night, February 9.

The Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church, the Wanda Hea Neig Campfire Girls, Bennett's drama store, the Shirley Shoppe and Players are joining in the sale of tickets. Reservations will begin at Bennett's store next Wednesday.

Helen Shelton, who enacted the leading role in the club's initial production, "Only Sally Ann," is cast as the feminine lead again in "My Irish Cinderella." She plays the role of Peggy, a poor child who suddenly is discovered to be the daughter of a wealthy English lord.

The adventures, humorous and interesting, which she encounters in adapting herself to the "new world" in which "Peggy" finds herself form the basis of the plot.

Hopes To Regain Use of His Hand

On the removal of a tiny piece of glass, Melvin Heacock of Beloit today based his hopes of regaining the perfect use of his left hand, crippled for six years.

Heacock's hand was cut when he accidentally broke a window pane at a Beloit school building in 1927. The hand has been crippled since that time.

Recently he underwent an operation in which a piece of glass, seven-eighths of an inch long, was removed from the hand.

Governor Appoi its Cox as Chairman of Investigating Unit

Fund "Robbed of Million Dollars", Is Charged
By Cox

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—Gov. George White today announced that a "sweeping investigation" would be made of the industrial compensation fund and named former Gov. James Cox of Dayton as chairman of the investigating group.

In a letter to the former executive Gov. White called upon Cox, "as father of this great plan," to head the committee, whose purpose it will be to observe and study administration of the fund with a view to correcting deficiencies and placing it once again in a position of effectiveness and strength.

The governor indicated the committee would have a free hand in its investigation. Of first importance, he said, was to determine as soon as possible if the fund employees, now under the director of industrial relations, should be transferred to the jurisdiction of the state industrial commission. If the committee feels this transfer is necessary and recommends the change, "I will immediately issue an executive order carrying into effect the recommendations of the committee."

The committee, in addition to Cox, will include two representatives of labor, Thomas J. Donnelly of Columbus and O. N. Chapman of Dayton, and two representatives of industry, Charles F. Michael of Bucyrus and Warren F. Perry of Youngstown.

Donnelly is secretary of the Ohio federation of labor and Chapman is acting president of the federation. Michael is president of the Ohio Manufacturers association and Perry is secretary of that organization.

Claims "Robbery"

By his decision, Governor White acceded to a demand of Cox for a vigorous and thorough investigation of the workers' compensation fund. The former governor had alleged that the fund "has been robbed of a million dollars." In a lengthy letter to Mr. White, Mr. Cox recited numerous instances of alleged chiselings by employers and physicians delegated with the task of examining injured workmen.

The governor explained he had named the special investigating committee because a senate committee, named to look into the industrial fund some time ago, had "not shown any disposition to do anything, even in the face of the Cleveland development" which resulted in the return of several indictments.

White added he questioned if the senate committee had broad enough powers to make the sort of an inquiry he desired.

Asks Change in Divisions

At the same time the governor made public a letter from T. A. Edmondson, director of industrial relations, in which Edmondson recommended the removal from that department of the division of workmen's compensation.

Edmondson said the personnel of the compensation division should be placed under the jurisdiction of the industrial commission. He also recommended an increase in personnel of the compensation division.

OAKLAND, Calif., Feb. 2.—Former President Herbert Hoover, in one of his few public appearances since leaving the White House, urged support for Oakland's Community chest. He spoke before service clubs during a luncheon yesterday.

Unavoidably, much of the extensive information concerning the latest move in monetary experimentation has the effect of confusing rather than clarifying the subject.
There literally are dozens of phases which are important, yet whose discussion adds nothing to fundamental understanding of what is being attempted by the Roosevelt administration.For the better understanding of the ordinary man who knows with reasonable certainty what his income is going to be for the next few months, the most important information is the answer to this question: How does all this devaluation business affect me?Preparatory to attempting even the vaguest kind of answer, a chro-nology of money events is presented in brief form. Last March, the bank holiday was proclaimed, which meant that the United States technically went off the gold standard.
In April, the government began to gather and to protect from exportation the national supply of gold.
The dollar began to decline in terms of European currencies, which means that its external value began to depreciate.In May, inflation up to three billion dollars in new currency was authorized by congress. Reduction of the gold content of the dollar up to 50 per cent was authorized. In June, congress invalidated the gold clause in contracts. In July, President Roosevelt refused to stabilize the dollar and repeated an earlier statement that his program was to raise commodity prices to a desirable level by encouraging depreciation of the dollar. He said that when a desirable price level had been reached it would be maintained by a commodity dollar, which meant a dollar whose gold content would be adjusted to equal commodity price levels in terms of money.In October and November the government began to buy gold at a price per ounce higher than the $20.67 authorized by law. By January its price had reached $34.45, the equivalent of a 60-cent dollar in terms of gold. During January, the government took title to all gold in the federal reserve banks, incidental to imminent announcement that the dollar's formal devaluation had been established.In terms of the dollar's former gold content of 23.22 grains and the former value of $20.67 for each ounce of gold, the 15-grain dollar as established by presidential decree on the first of February with gold worth $35 an ounce is worth 59.06 cents. That represents close to the highest point it can reach without further changes in the monetary authority which congress has delegated to President Roosevelt. It can be devalued to a point 9.06 cents lower if the President so desires.What does all this mean, then, to the American citizen who must buy commodities with his dollars? Immediately, it will mean very little.
There is no proof that devaluation of the dollar and the means established to keep it depreciated in terms of foreign currency will increase domestic prices directly, although it is agreed that over a long period it would tend to make them higher. For domestic purposes, however, its buying power will remain unchanged.Normal devaluation, therefore, is merely one more step in the course of the administration's experimental attempt, which started last spring, to raise prices. It is chiefly important as a possible means of forcing international stabilization of currencies—a means attended by the grave risk of skating along on thin ice of inflation. However, the same risk of deflation has been taken every step of the way since last March.

BALANCED NAVY

Give a congressman 15 minutes, a table of comparative statistics on naval strength and an audience, and he will be able to prove beyond doubt that the United States is in immediate danger of invasion. Because enough members of the house of representatives apparently believe sincerely that the national defense of the country demands a greater navy than exists at present, the house has passed a bill establishing a navy that ultimately will be second to none.This is not immediately apparent in the language of the bill. Actually, it authorizes the United States to build up to its limits under the London naval treaty. But in the circumstances of its passage there is clear evidence that this government is adopting a new naval policy. Favored by a president who is openly favorable to its doctrine, the big navy group has definite assurance of success for its aims. A recently published article by Representative Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, explains the point of view that is in the ascendancy under the Roosevelt administration."For a number of years the United States has refrained from building its navy to the limits permitted by international agreement in the hope that this action might contribute to world peace," he explains. "The policy of disarmament by example has proved to be a dismal failure.
Instead of assuring world peace,
such a policy is a menace to it....
The United States is very far short of the limits set by the Washington and London treaties. Each of the other signatories has carried out an orderly building program and has progressed much further than we in attaining the authorized strength. Two courses are open. The first is to induce the other nations to reduce to our level; the second is for us to build to the full treaty limits. Inasmuch as the first has been tried repeatedly with no success whatever, only the second course remains."In brief, the United States has weakened by trying to rationalize its possessions of a navy that testified to its belief in disarmament. Henceforth, it will accept the challenge of other naval powers. If there is to be a race for naval superiority, this country will be in it, bidding for first place. The big navy group claims the effect will be good; that maintenance of peace will be made easier thereby. A larger group, the taxpayers who pay the cost of armament races, remain skeptical.

What Others Say

WILLAMAN TO RESERVE

The retirement of Tom Keady and the appointment of Sam Willaman to succeed him as football coach at Reserve were not unexpected. The tenure of the latter at Ohio State has been uncertain since early in the last football season. His name had been frequently mentioned in connection with the Reserve position.
Keady's three years at the local institution had been successful. His teams, though never brilliant, had given a good account of themselves.
He retired, not because his work was unsatisfactory, but because of Reserve's unwillingness to renew a contract at his current salary.
In bringing Willaman back to Cleveland where his coaching career began many years ago, Reserve accuses the services of a man whose Big Ten record would have been satisfactory probably to every institution in the conference except Ohio State. He is fortunate in getting away from a position that has become increasingly difficult, and in coming to one where miracles will not be demanded. Reserve is fortunate to be able to secure the services of one of the leading coaches of the Midwest.Willaman's retirement will save the Ohio State athletic officials much embarrassment. To have kept the retiring coach for another year would have invited continuing criticism and dissatisfaction from alumni who demand victory over Michigan at all costs. To have forced him to resign in the face of his excellent record would have brought down on the university from different groups criticism no less bitter.
Rumor has had half a dozen coaches of nation-wide prominence in the Ohio State position. Now that Willaman is out the vacancy will doubtless be filled promptly.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York CityA Cataract Easily Removed
I am frequently asked whether cataract of the eyes is a curable disease. It may be checked in some types but only if correct treatment is given at the proper time.

Dr. Copeland

The actual cause of this affliction has never been discovered.
Many theories and explanations are offered, but as yet none has been confirmed. It is probable that the disease is the result of certain changes within the body which result in deposits of opaque material in the crystalline lens of the eye. This leads to increasing cloudiness which gradually dims the vision and may ultimately result in blindness.
Cataract is sometimes the result of some organic disease, such as diabetes or arteriosclerosis. It is often associated with infections of the nose, sinuses, teeth and other vital structures in the head. When the disorder is traced to a constitutional disease, cure can only be hoped for when the necessary treatment for the organic disorder is inaugurated.

Though cataract is usually encountered in elderly individuals, it is not uncommon to find it in young persons. As a rule, it is a slow and progressive ailment. It may involve one eye or both eyes.A Simple Operation

A person who is told he has a cataract may refuse medical care because he believes the condition is hopeless. Another dreams an operation and neglects the disorder until the best time for operation has passed. Do not be misled by the many conflicting and unfounded statements concerning cataract.If operation is advised there is no need for alarm. In the hands of a competent surgeon it is indeed a simple procedure and the results are more than gratifying. In advanced cataract there is no treatment except operation.If both eyes are involved, which is usually the case, it is best to have one eye operated upon at a time.
This is the safest procedure, eliminating the danger of a double infection.Impaired vision, multiple vision, and other disturbances of sight, demand immediate medical attention.
It may not be cataract at all and early recognition of the real trouble means prompt and sure cure.Because of the blessed effects of skilled surgery, the cataract is removed. I can say in truth that of all serious troubles we can have, cataract is most satisfactory because it can be gotten rid of painlessly and quickly.

Yet there may be some concern re-this respect there may be a lead in sardonic employment and likewise there may be anxiety or friction in purely private or domestic relations.

Shun overindulgences.Those whose birthday it is may making daily blunders. The most sacred rights were endangered by a bunch of lunatics who did not have a program or aim, but merely their will.

Couldn't Get Support

"As they could not get support from the other sectors, or from the business men of Cuba, they began granting all kinds of privileges to the mobs in order to get them to their side, in which they partially succeeded. They refused to pay the foreign loans, claiming that the loans were made by an unlawful government, and there was a time when everyone felt that within a few hours they might dare to declare themselves a Sovietic republic and seize private property."

The picture was indeed dark, as Mr. Mora-Oña paints it for this particular period. Luckily, however, General Batista, a former sergeant of the Cuban army, sensed the danger and forced, in the Junta, Grau San Martín's resignation. Carlos Hevia, member of the Grau cabinet, was appointed president, but failed to get support and resigned within 48 hours. Then all sectors had a meeting and agreed on Mendiola, leader of the "Union Nacionalista," Cuba's largest party.

He named leaders of all sectors in his cabinet and the crisis was averted.

Sankey Exonerated In Lindbergh Case; Held On 2nd Count

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Verne Sankey, described as "America's public enemy No. 1," has escaped temporarily at least, a charge of participation in the kidnapping of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, but must face a federal court trial for the abduction of the wealthy Denver broker, Charles Boettcher, II.

Hours of questioning by federal agents apparently failed to link Sankey with the fatal Lindbergh abduction, and he was started for Pierre, S. D., where he is under indictment for the Boettcher "snatch." Sankey, who the authorities said "lived the drab life of a ranchman to take the more lucrative racket of a 'big time' kidnaper," apparently had no objection to going to South Dakota, for he waived extradition.

A private car was used for the notorious bad man and his five guards.

Sankey, who confessed, Purvis said to the $60,000 Boettcher kidnapping as well as $12,000 abduction of Haskell Bohn, both of St. Paul, faced the prospect of receiving a life term, if he is convicted, and there were indications that the authorities were hopeful that he would be.

St. Paul authorities said they were disappointed in Sankey's swift transfer to South Dakota.

Meanwhile Sankey's woman companion, who identified herself as Helen Matern, 28, arrested last Wednesday when Sankey was captured in a barbershop, remained in custody for further questioning.

Declares Execution of Nurse Justified

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The execution of Nurse Edith Cavell by the German army during the World war was justified in the opinion of A. Duff Cooper, financial secretary of the British war office.

"Miss Cavell," Cooper told an audience of army officers, "was a brave and courageous woman; when the Germans were entitled to execute according to the rules of warfare. But any politician would have told them the execution was going to arm 100,000 men against Germany."

Cooper asked a truce in the traditional conflict between soldiers and politicians.

Miss Louisa Cavell was convicted by a German court martial in the summer of 1915 of having assisted 130 persons from Belgium while she was in charge of a Red Cross hospital at St. Gilles. She was executed by a German firing squad on the morning of Oct. 12, 1915. A peak in the Canadian Rockies is named after her.

Dancing to Altar?

Although the gossips have long linked the names of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Gertrude Lawrence, British actress, this is the first time they have been caught together by the camera. They're shown dancing in a London night club. Rumor says they're headed for the altar.

Mushroom Recipes

Mushrooms are plentiful and very good this year, and almost every shop in every section has baskets of this most nutritious delicacy on sale at very reasonable prices. Serve mushrooms often.

There are few foods that combine such nutritive value with such a delightful flavor. So many grand dishes can be made with mushrooms, and almost every housewife has her collection of pet mushroom recipes. Some time ago this department gave several mushroom dishes and in response to requests for "more" we have gathered another collection of recipes.

Luncheon Dish

A quick and easy luncheon dish that can be served to the most important guest is made by putting the required number of peeled mushrooms in a casserole. Place a small piece of butter in the center of each mushroom, season to taste and pour a little milk over all.

Cover the casserole and bake in a moderately hot oven for 15 minutes. A nice variation of this dish is made by using large mushrooms. Wash, remove stems and peel. Put in shallow buttered pans, cap side up. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter, and add two-thirds of a cup of cream. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven. Serve on dry toast and pour over the cream remaining in pan.

Mushroom Dainties

Mushroom dainties are nice as a supper dish. Prepare a pound of mushrooms and put in saucet with a little water, and pepper and salt to taste. Simmer till soft. Then take them out and put aside to keep warm. Put two cups of butter in the saucet and while this is melting, mix a tablespoon of flour with half a cup of milk. Add this to the melted butter and simmer for five minutes, stirring all the time. Add the mushrooms and heat all together. Serve on strips of buttered toast garnished with parsley.

A very quickly made soup that is most tasty is made as follows:

Wash and slice six mushrooms into thin slices. Cook for five minutes in one cup of water. Add three cups of soup stock and heat together. Add salt and pepper. Serve with cheese crackers.

Mushroom Soup

Cream of mushroom soup is always a winter favorite. Slice one and a half pounds of mushrooms, quite thin. Place in kettle. Add two cups boiling water, three chicken flavor bouillon cubes, and two slices of onion. Heat to boiling point and simmer gently 20 minutes. Melt four tablespoons butter in a saucet, add three tablespoons flour and stir till smooth. Add two cups of milk and one cup cream or three cups rich milk, and continue cooking and stirring till smooth. Add to the mushrooms, season and serve. Serves four.

Mushrooms on toast is always a popular luncheon dish. There are many methods of doing this dish. Here is a favorite of this department. Fry some rounds of bread, quarter-inch thick, and a good quantity of peeled mushrooms.

Place some thinly cut and crisply fried bacon on the rounds of fried bread. Pile up the mushrooms on the bacon and serve very hot. A small piece of maitre d'hotel butter is nice.

Rescind Dam Loan

CHICAGO GRAIN
Wheat underwent tumblers of more than a cent a bushel today, largely as a result of profit taking sales for holders and because of selling here against purchases at Winnipeg.
Dollar devaluation appeared to have lost influence temporarily as a buying stimulus among wheat traders. The monetary situation was generally regarded as having confused the grain trade to such an extent that a majority of operations were acting with considerable caution, not knowing what to expect.

Cementing Cuban Recognition

Enjoying their first shore leave in Havana since the overthrow of the Machado regime, these American sailors are cementing diplomatic relations between the U. S. and Cuba with the aid of a charming Cuban senorita. The boys were given a rousing reception in the Cuban capital on their first social call.

A Review of the Day's News

By Arthur Brisbane

GENERAL HAYASHI, new Japanese war minister, says that if war comes, it will be Russia's fault. Japan longs only for peace. You remember hearing something like that in 1914.

At the same time, Stalin, who doesn't seem to know that it is polite to say, "I love everybody," was telling the Communist party in Moscow: "We warn everybody not to poke their snouts into the Soviet potato patch." He should have said "this snout." The Russian gathering roared approval, expressing fullest confidence and delight in anything Stalin might wish to do.

STALIN added that Japan is not the only country with an ambition to "wage war against the Soviet union and share its territory." Some European nations have that idea, according to Stalin. He is supposed to mean Germany.

General Hayashi says it is silly to talk about war between the United States and Japan, and he is right. Russia, in her present state of revolutionary enthusiasm, would keep any country busy.

"YOU LEAVE MY husband alone!" appeals to many jurymen. Miss Inez Lindsey, young, was in a car with Mrs. Ella Mae Mumford's husband. Mrs. Mumford shot Inez, killed her, admitted it, but told the jury she really could not remember anything about it. The jury said she was insane, and told her to go home.

Primitive justice, indicating that the "sacred marriage tie" is taken more seriously in some places than in others.

THE PRESIDENT fixes the dollar value at 59.96 cents. That is the official value of each dollar. You earn and spend. Just what "value" means remains to be demonstrated. One New York banker figures out that with gold up and the dollar down, the "bank credit of the United States could be expanded to about 369,000 million dollars."

That seems a good deal of money, if it is real money. Or is there any

No Joy Ride for Dillinger

Surrounded by heavily-armed police and deputies, John Dillinger, notorious Indiana desperado, is shown (hatless) as he arrived at Chicago Municipal Airport after a plane trip from Tucson, Ariz., where he and four members of his gang were captured. He was immediately whisked away to Crown Point, Ind., to face murder charge.

real money? The fact is that we have something more than 7,000 million dollars in gold after raising the "value" from about $20 to $35. How that much gold can be spread out to cover 360 billion dollars would puzzle a gold-beater.

WITH YOUR EAR against the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington recently, you might have heard whirring of machinery. Beautiful new money was coming from printing presses, all bills of $10,000 each. The government will use them to pay Federal Reserve banks for 3,600 million dollars' worth of gold that the banks must turn over "even as you and I," to old Uncle Sam.

The government must print 360-600 $10,000 notes to get that gold, but it is a bargain. Where those notes came from, there are more.

HOME MAKING HELPS

STUDY THE LIGHTING OF YOUR NEW HOME

WHEN WE move into a new house, or even build one, we are apt to stick to the conventional when it comes to lighting, giving far more care to the color scheme or to the furnishings. Yet, the lighting is far more important than either of these since it has a direct bearing on our health and disposition. Please remember that at least half of the average person's leisure is passed under artificial light. There are long evenings to be spent with books, paper, in playing cards or in studying. And so it behooves us to give each room the proper light. This is not a case of the amount of light. It may be too much light, the wrong kind of light or the light in the wrong place, or too much glare. All of these faults are common ones, all the cause of headaches, eye-strain and irritability.

Light Where You Want It
Lighting should be planned and placed so that it gives us ample illumination without glare, where we want it, and at a minimum of current. And so the first essential before planning the kind of fittings or lamps is to see to it that the rooms have plenty of outlets, with plenty of wiring. Plenty of lamps mean less in consumption of electric energy than a huge central fitting which lights the whole room enough to see by, but not enough to throw the right amount of light from the right position, on book or card table. That is why the tendency is to do away with these central chandeliers. This, too, has a way of making the room seem higher, more spacious. If the room hasn't many outlets, then there are now available double and triple plugs to which lamp cords can be attached. When outlets are under consideration, they should be planned and placed with a direct purpose in mind. Outlets near corners will provide for that grouping of easy chair, table and lamp which means a pleasant evening for the reader or student.

Simple Fittings
Be cautious when it comes to selecting fittings. The real function of a fitting is to diffuse the brilliance of the light source, and so direct the illumination where it will be required. Ornamental fittings are out. The new fittings conceal the bulb and diffuse a soft light. More and more we are combining utility and beauty, and disposing of that which is clumsily ornamental.

The kitchen has been the Cinderella hen it came to arranging the lighting for the home. Too often, nearly always in fact, the cook is condemned to work at sink, table and stove in her own shadow. The usual overhead central fitting should be augmented by wall lights suspended over table, sink and stove. This will add to the cheerful aspect of the kitchen and things will go easier.

TENINO, Wash.—Tenino, the little town that took the bull by the horns a year ago when its bank closed, and began issuing wooden money, is now in the black, and on a cash basis. The town treasurer reports a cash balance of $2,345.30 for the new year, due to "rigid economy and improved payment of taxes".

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Mrs. Amanda Rector has been granted

"WAS TAKING EVERY KIND OF DRUG FOR CONSTIPATION"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"I am 34 years old and as far back in my life I have been constipated. I was so bad that I had one bowel movement every five or six days. I was taking every kind of drug known for constipation.

"Now for the last two months I have been eating a little ALL-BRAN night and morning and I have at least two to three bowel movements each day."—Mr. Frank Piratzky, 40-66 98th St., Corona, Long Island, New York.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also a fine source of iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream—sugar or honey or fresh fruits added. Or, to use in cooking.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Investigate Liquor Permits In Akron

COLUMBUS, Feb. 2—An investigation into the liquor permit situation in Akron and Summit county appeared probable today, with Col. John Hughes, department director, asserting he would send a force of inspectors there next week. The inquiry was spurred by a telephone conversation between a department clerk and Sheriff Roy Potts, of Summit county, who insisted that his signature be withdrawn from every questionnaire he has answered as to eligibility of applicants for permits. Hughes promised revocation of any permits found to be held by ineligible and said he would welcome a letter from Potts explaining the situation. Potts was quoted as saying he was being "put on the spot" by newspapers. The director's name was sent by Gov. White, to the senate yesterday for confirmation, along with the names of the four board members. Board members will be called before the rules committee next week. Meantime, the state beer commission revoked the licenses of 18 beer permit holders, continued 10 cases and restored permits to six others.

Quakers Favored Over Warren In Duel Here Saturday Night

SALEM INVADES LIVERPOOL HIGH COURT TONIGHT

Stiff Two-Day Schedule Face Brownmen; Hope To Trim Potters

Slated to do battle with their old East Liverpool High rival at the Pottery City tonight, Coach Herb Brown's Quaker basketball team will leave tomorrow for a cage duel with a strong Warren high quintet.

Fans Stay Home Tonight
Reserved seats were placed on sale today for the Warren game and this contest will probably be the only one of the Quakers fans this week. The Brownmen might as well save themselves time and stay at home tonight and there's little chance that they'll get into the East Liverpool gym, which has total capacity, seating and standing, of only 750.

Tickets for Saturday's games are on sale at the Lease Drug and Baiting stores.

The Quakers will take the court for the Warren game as slight favorites but a classy battle is anticipated for Pierre Hill has developed a fairly strong combination at Harding High. This team tackles Memorial High of Campbell tonight with Warren the heavy favorite to win.

Dixon Is Fee's Mainstay
Dixon, tall Warren center, is the mainstay of the Trumbull offensive attack, while Hill has two classy forwards in Smith and Fine and some reliable defenses in Bryant and Chickerno. The former was advanced to the varsity following the graduation of "Junior" Davis, Hill's star point-maker, at the close of the first semester.

Warren will miss Davis greatly for he led the Harding squad in scoring in practically every game this season. Close behind him, however, in point-making came Smith and Dixon with the latter being ranked high among the district's photomen.

The varsity battle is slated at 8:45 p. m. with Joseph Fejes of Sharon, Pa., as the referee. Reserves collide in the primary at 7:30.

Real Battle Looms
It is regrettable that Quaker fans will have no opportunity of witnessing tonight's fray at East Liverpool for it looms as one of the real classics of the season. The Potters go mightily tough on their home ball-court, a tiny, hand-box affair, and it's the floor that the Brownmen fear more than they do the Ceramic team.

The foreign court jinx has proven a bugaboo to the Quakers all season. They had a real battle on their hands as they invaded Sebring and won out, 21-17, only after a sensational rally in the final three minutes of play. Then last week they played at East Palestine and lost by a 28-20 score. The fact that Liverpool's gym is even more difficult for visiting teams than those at Palestine and Sebring makes it look tougher than ever for Salem.

However, it has been proven that the Potters can be upset on their home ballcourt, for Scienceville licked them soundly early this season and Salem trounced Liverpool at the last three straight years.

Coach Tom Dixon will start Laughlin at center with Booth and Stewart at forwards and Mackey and Dietz at guards. His new center, "Hoops" Neasekrodes, will get into the battle early in the fray when Laughlin will be switched to guard in place of Dietz.

Wesleyan Five Gains Verdict Over Denison In League Tilt

(By Associated Press)
The leader of the Buckeye Athletic Association, Ohio Wesleyan, today, can boast its superiority in two leagues. A 30 to 23 victory over Denison, which shares the leadership in the Ohio conference, last night gave force to such a claim.

Wesleyan amassed its score despite a line-up change necessitated by the absence of Hendricks, center, and the shifting of Talos, a guard, to a forward post.

NEW YORK GRID COACH RESIGNS

Cann Quits Under Fire; Holyoke Mentor In Line for Post

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Feb. 2—For the second time in three years, New York university was forced to look about for a new head football coach today.

Howard G. (Jake) Cann, appointed to the post in January, 1932, as successor to Dynamic John F. (Chick) Meehan, when N. Y. U. decided to de-emphasize the game, resigned suddenly last night after heavy undergraduate fire. He retains his post, however, as basketball coach and assistant professor and director of physical training.

Indications pointed strongly today to Arthur H. (Archie) Roberts of Holyoke, Mass., as new head coach. Quarterback on the great Meehan-coached teams of the Ken Strong-Al Lamsman era, freshman coach of basketball, football and Other games include Dayton at Wittenberg, Franklin at Penn. Earlham at Holbrook and Bluffton alumni playing the varsity.

PERFECT lubrication in ZERO weather

Thick, stiff oil gums up the motor and makes it hard to "turnover." Bearings and cylinder walls do not get enough oil until the motor warms up. By that time the damage is done.

For winter driving, use Freedom Perfect Motor Oil. Superfluous wax has been removed to make it free-flowing even in below-zero weather. Don't delay. One cold day with the wrong kind of oil may do serious and costly damage. Drive into a Freedom dealer's today and change to the proper grade of Freedom Perfect, the cold-proof oil. BRINGING UP FATHER—

POLLY AND HER PALS—

"I TAKE THIS WOMAN"

SYNOPSIS

After three years in Europe, lovely Stanley Paige, young society girl, returns to New York. She phones Perry Devereux, who had been madly in love with her before she was rushed aboard following her father's death. Stanley, however, was not so sure of her heart at the time. Perry realizes, after seeing Stanley again, that he is still in love with her but feels himself against committing himself until his love is reciprocated. Stanley, on her own as long as she could remember, was never sure of what she wanted in life. Perry takes her to Nigel Stern's studio party where she meets handsome Drew Armitage, "who has a way with women." They fall in love on sight. On the way home Stanley asks Perry, "Why couldn't it have been you?" He assures her he will be in the background always—waiting. He wonders if Drew could make her happy.

CHAPTER FIVE

Drew rang her bell the next morning at exactly eleven. The night before he had invited himself to breakfast. "After all," he had said, smiling at her in that last, fleeting moment before they went back to the party, "that is the final test, isn't it? If we feel the same way in the morning, it's pretty obvious that it's real, don't you think?"

It was early April and Sunday morning. Ellen had set the breakfast table in front of one of the deep drawing room windows. The sun splashed warmly across silver and linen and a bowl of yellow daffodils; spilled itself brightly over the mauve carpet. There was a pleasant smell of cigarette smoke and percolating coffee and Parma violets.

"I'm not sure your Ellen approves of me," Drew confided gravely to Stanley across the little table.

"I'm not sure I do myself," she met his eyes with a certain brave directness. She felt more sure of things this morning. She could think more clearly, look at him without that foolish feeling of suffocation. Perhaps it was because for the time being she felt safe from the assault of his lips, his eyes, his hard, young arms.

"That's quite all right with me. People we approve of are so often stodgy, don't you think? I've an idea we scarcely ever love them. And you do love me, don't you, Stanley?"

Now she was trembling again. Neither the sunlight nor the smell of the gently percolating coffee nor the fire that burned slowly on the hearth could make her feel safe, secure from that note in his voice, that tender, laughing, insistent note that clutched at her heart and squeezed it tight.

She lifted her eyes and answered him clearly. "I seem to—very much."

He leaned forward, laid his hand over hers. "Don't be so darned tense about it, darling. You ought to be happy. But you're not—you're scared."

"Perhaps I haven't had time to get used to it."

"You don't get used to being in love, Stanley, you simply are. Please believe that."

"You're very expert about this sort of thing, aren't you, Drew?"

He grinned at her briefly. "It's instinctive with me. I imagine. And I've never loaded myself down with a lot of stupid inhibitions. While you—"

He shrugged, frowned at her gently. "Try to let yourself go, Stanley—you'll find it much the best way."

"You've had lots of experience, I expect," she said lightly, provocatively, while in her heart something twisted suddenly like a sharp little knife.

"I suppose I have—one way or another," he agreed gravely. "While I imagine you have had very little."

She nodded, lighted a cigarette with not quite steady fingers. "Almost none at all, I should say."

"I think I knew that. I think I knew that almost at once. There's something about you, Stanley," he considered her with slightly closed, speculative eyes. "You've never been mauled, nor even kissed much. I imagine. You couldn't have been and remained so—exquisite. There's something about you that's sweet and young and fearfully innocent. It's a bit frightening and wholly enchanting." He smiled suddenly. "I'm just selfish enough to be glad about it. To be glad that I'm the first, you know."

"You don't object to—the responsibility?" She managed to return his smile with one that was free and a little pleading. It made her eyes go suddenly soft and wide. "Object to it? I love it!"

An hour later they were in Drew's car, headed for the open country. "We're going quite away from the world," he told her, sliding down beside her, until his shoulders brushed hers, "and try to make up for all the time we've missed. Not that we'll ever be able to do it, of course, but it'll be nice trying!"

Afterward Stanley could never remember what they talked about. She could never remember anything except the way Drew's profile looked against the blur of flying hillsides and vivid sky, the way his voice sounded against the soft singing of the wind, against the even softer murmur of the motor. She could never remember anything except a road going ever up, a sky that dipped down to meet it, a rush of wind against her face, the smell of young, growing things, slender birches tipped with new born green, wayside brambles trembling into adolescent loveliness, the deep, burnished red of swollen willow branches.

Some time in the afternoon they stopped for lunch at a farmhouse, high up in the hills. A freshly painted sign, "Tourists Accommodated chicken dinners," was drying on the porch and the place was quite obviously not ready for visitors. But a broad-breasted woman in a checked gingham dress gave them fried chicken and coffee and fresh rhubarb tarts. They ate at a table in the big, cheerful kitchen, the dining room being in the throes of spring cleaning. A lazy amber cat slept peacefully in a pool of sunlight on a high shelf, an old walnut clock ticked away the minutes.

Once more in the car, climbing ever upward, Drew turned to her and said softly, "I don't believe I've told you yet, this morning, how beautiful you are—how heartbreakingly beautiful."

Mystery Death

A recent photo of Mrs. Rose Elizabeth Koonz, whose body was found in her Brooklyn, N. Y., home, where it had lain for two weeks, dead from gas poisoning. Questioned by police, Clyde V. Koonz, the husband, said he found the body ten days ago, but since then his mind had been a blank. He was held on a technical charge of homicide.

"I Am Suzanne", Lasky's Latest, Is Novel Both in Treatment and Story

JESSE L. LASKY, whose name has always been associated with new and different ideas in motion pictures, presents his latest production "I Am Suzanne" this evening and Saturday at the State. Lillian Harvey, the diminutive continental star who met with such success in her previous American pictures, "My Weakness" and "My Lips Betray" has the leading feminine role with Gene Raymond playing opposite her.

Famous Puppets

Lasky's attempt at the unique in this film is evidenced by the background, which is composed of Parisian revues and the novel settings of a puppet show. The show, with Podressa's Piccoli Marionettes engaged for a major part, is the first of its kind to be employed in pictures.

The story concerns itself with the love of a young stage star and a chap who represents a family of puppeteers. The star is hurt seriously in an accident in one of her acts. During her convalescence her love for Raymond, who had helped her during her illness where her manager had deserted her grows, and at the same time she becomes interested in the puppet show. On the strength of a number built around the puppet Raymond has made of the little dancer, the show prospers.

Suzanne Rebels

But the applause for her image arouses a yearning in Suzanne to once more hear the applause for herself. The words of the puppeteers and of Tony (Raymond) do nothing to stifle this desire as they always praise the doll, not Suzanne. Her love for Tony though, keeps her from accepting an offer from her old manager. But at a party Tony, instead of professing his love for her, addresses the puppet. Infuriated at his thoughtlessness she destroys the little image and returns to the stage. On the opening night Suzanne is listless and uninspired.

Though he loves her in his own way, the manager would rather have the money that goes with a success, so he urges Tony to tell the dancer of his love. He does so and Suzanne gives the greatest performance of her career. This stage finale is really magnificent in its beauty and in its novel treatment—and Miss Harvey has more chance to show her American audiences some of the dancing that has made her famous in Europe than she had in her former films.

Both stars do well and Leslie Banks, the star of "The Most Dangerous Game" is good as the manager. However, the hit of the film, it seems, is the puppet show of the Teatro dei Piccoli.

CLEVELAND—Kali Carabood celebrated his 80th birthday here recently, apparently unchallenged in his claim of being the world's champion godfather, with 144 godchildren to his credit.
